PEET

Ellery masterplan.

Ellery’s masterplan has been designed to bring touches of the new and old – providing for the most modern of homes whilst retaining historic River Red Gum trees that are dotted throughout the community. An existing park and future waterway at the edge of Ellery will create a warm welcome to residents and guests and create a natural distinction from Craigieburn Road for a quiet and relaxing home.
